SAVING LIVES!

Quote from the Book "No Time for Good byes"

Paradox - a statement seemingly absurd or self-contradictory, but really founded on truth.

It is paradoxical that the more you long for an answer to the mysterious "why" the more difficult it is to find answers. The cause of a tragic death is usually someone's choice or negligence. It is a 'human being' problem rather than a "God" problem. As long as humans have the freedom to make choices, some will choose to be evil at worst, negligent at best; and the innocent will suffer the consequences.
